“Japan as an Asset Management Nation”: 2 years on

FinCity.Tokyo

"The launch of the 'Japan as an Asset Management Nation' policy in December 2023 has positioned the asset management sector as a core driver of the Japanese economy. This strategic shift is designed to channel wealth into growth opportunities while also establishing a sustainable framework for the aging society.

We are seeing a significant influx of new players into the market. Approximately 50 firms were registered in the last 5 years and many more are in the process of setting up in Tokyo. What is driving their interest? Please join a discussion to discover the latest developments in the market, how overseas players can enter and grow their business.
